

Reflection Questions

Does your team trust one another enough to challenge their ideas and call out inefficiencies when they see them?

When members of your team have an idea, how do you respond?

Are you aware of their emotional makeup and how you can deliver feedback in a way that speaks to them?

How do you respond when others are giving you and your ideas constructive feedback? And how far do you go to defend and justify your ideas?

